

SPRINGBOARD JUMPS FOR JOY

12:00 - 22 February 2007

A staff development company from East Down has been awarded another accolade to add to its growing collection. The Springboard Consultancy, based at Holwell, was presented with an Investor in people (IIP) award.

The award shows the company devotes time, attention and money to its staff.

The consultancy, which advises other businesses and organisations how to develop staff, has already earned the Lady Platt Award for the most innovative equal opportunities training.

Rosemary Cole of the IIP awarding body, Quality South West, said: "The Springboard Consultancy is an extremely successful company which has had a positive impact on many people's lives in many different countries.

"They also inspire their staff and trainers and there is no doubt that they walk the talk in terms of their belief that they have untapped potential."

Jenny Daisley and Liz Willis founded the consultancy in 1988 and it has gone from strength to strength, expanding from its rural North Devon base to delivering development training to more than 170,000 people in 21 countries.
